Almost 50 years ago, Echoing Hills Village began ministering to “the least of these.”

To us, the “least of these” were people with disabilities. People who had difficulty walking, talking or finding themselves, who were neglected and hidden in institutions or not at all. They were marginalized by society, hidden in back rooms, large institutions or simply ignored as if they did not exist. They were people, people like you and me who had been here for 10 years of life.

For the hungry, we have provided 49 years of wholesome and healthy meals. For the thirsty, we have ensured clean, clear water for drinking. For the hungry, we have built a place to belong and a bed to sleep in. For the naked, we have supplied clothing and dignity. For the sick, we have pioneered new treatments and offered comfort. For the prisoner, we have provided freedom from shame and stigma, bringing them into the open.

But more important than all of these earthly necessities, we have brought a message of salvation and eternal life - a place where God Himself will wipe away every tear, from hunger, sickness, loneliness, pain, rejection, or embarrassment, and will welcome all of us into our eternal homes with Him.

We are excited to celebrate another year of serving “the least of these” and we celebrate all of those who have helped to make it possible.

Buddy Brack

Almost 50 years ago, Echoing Hills Village began ministering to “the least of these.”

To us, the “least of these” were people with disabilities. People who had difficulty walking, talking or finding themselves, who were neglected and hidden in institutions or not at all. They were marginalized by society, hidden in back rooms, large institutions or simply ignored as if they did not exist. They were people, people like you and me who had been here for 10 years of life.

For the hungry, we have provided 49 years of wholesome and healthy meals. For the thirsty, we have ensured clean, clear water for drinking. For the hungry, we have built a place to belong and a bed to sleep in. For the naked, we have supplied clothing and dignity. For the sick, we have pioneered new treatments and offered comfort. For the prisoner, we have provided freedom from shame and stigma, bringing them into the open.

But more important than all of these earthly necessities, we have brought a message of salvation and eternal life - a place where God Himself will wipe away every tear, from hunger, sickness, loneliness, pain, rejection, or embarrassment, and will welcome all of us into our eternal homes with Him.

We are excited to celebrate another year of serving “the least of these” and we celebrate all of those who have helped to make it possible.

Buddy Brack

Almost 50 years ago, Echoing Hills Village began ministering to “the least of these.”

To us, the “least of these” were people with disabilities. People who had difficulty walking, talking or finding themselves, who were neglected and hidden in institutions or not at all. They were marginalized by society, hidden in back rooms, large institutions or simply ignored as if they did not exist. They were people, people like you and me who had been here for 10 years of life.

For the hungry, we have provided 49 years of wholesome and healthy meals. For the thirsty, we have ensured clean, clear water for drinking. For the hungry, we have built a place to belong and a bed to sleep in. For the naked, we have supplied clothing and dignity. For the sick, we have pioneered new treatments and offered comfort. For the prisoner, we have provided freedom from shame and stigma, bringing them into the open.

But more important than all of these earthly necessities, we have brought a message of salvation and eternal life - a place where God Himself will wipe away every tear, from hunger, sickness, loneliness, pain, rejection, or embarrassment, and will welcome all of us into our eternal homes with Him.

We are excited to celebrate another year of serving “the least of these” and we celebrate all of those who have helped to make it possible.

Buddy Brack

Almost 50 years ago, Echoing Hills Village began ministering to “the least of these.”

To us, the “least of these” were people with disabilities. People who had difficulty walking, talking or finding themselves, who were neglected and hidden in institutions or not at all. They were marginalized by society, hidden in back rooms, large institutions or simply ignored as if they did not exist. They were people, people like you and me who had been here for 10 years of life.

For the hungry, we have provided 49 years of wholesome and healthy meals. For the thirsty, we have ensured clean, clear water for drinking. For the hungry, we have built a place to belong and a bed to sleep in. For the naked, we have supplied clothing and dignity. For the sick, we have pioneered new treatments and offered comfort. For the prisoner, we have provided freedom from shame and stigma, bringing them into the open.

But more important than all of these earthly necessities, we have brought a message of salvation and eternal life - a place where God Himself will wipe away every tear, from hunger, sickness, loneliness, pain, rejection, or embarrassment, and will welcome all of us into our eternal homes with Him.

We are excited to celebrate another year of serving “the least of these” and we celebrate all of those who have helped to make it possible.

Buddy Brack

Almost 50 years ago, Echoing Hills Village began ministering to “the least of these.”

To us, the “least of these” were people with disabilities. People who had difficulty walking, talking or finding themselves, who were neglected and hidden in institutions or not at all. They were marginalized by society, hidden in back rooms, large institutions or simply ignored as if they did not exist. They were people, people like you and me who had been here for 10 years of life.

For the hungry, we have provided 49 years of wholesome and healthy meals. For the thirsty, we have ensured clean, clear water for drinking. For the hungry, we have built a place to belong and a bed to sleep in. For the naked, we have supplied clothing and dignity. For the sick, we have pioneered new treatments and offered comfort. For the prisoner, we have provided freedom from shame and stigma, bringing them into the open.

But more important than all of these earthly necessities, we have brought a message of salvation and eternal life - a place where God Himself will wipe away every tear, from hunger, sickness, loneliness, pain, rejection, or embarrassment, and will welcome all of us into our eternal homes with Him.

We are excited to celebrate another year of serving “the least of these” and we celebrate all of those who have helped to make it possible.

Buddy Brack
Individuals at Echoing Hills Residential Center like to DIY their dinners. Two of their favorite recipes are making your own pasta and making your own cake. No matter how the individuals choose to celebrate, staff work hard to ensure that the day is safe, fun and memorable.